RESPONSIBLY

We recover materials that have been considered used up and create beautiful, full-value products from them! The recycling materials from which the yarn is made are both production waste from factories and consumers in the form of used clothes and other cotton textiles.

NO DYES

The textiles primarily cut into smaller pieces are then shredded until a sort of dust is received. At this stage the color is created – the shredded cotton in various colors is mixed in specific proportions in order to receive the desired shade.

THREAD

The fibers are then spinned into thread which is later delivered to us. We import the yarn from an European producer and use it to make cords in a factory in Poland. Because of how the production process is designed, different batches of one color may differ from one another.

THINKING ABOUT THE PLANET

Neither water nor toxic chemicals are involved in the production of our cords. We try to minimize energy consumption as much as possible and reduce CO2 emissions. The string is wound up on a biodegradable paper spool.

COLORS

We spend a lot of time designing our new color collections by following the latest trends. The yarn is always made to our special order.
